on "the beautiful show will allow me to continue. My poem is on 'The Beautiful Liquor Dealers Compelled by Him to Mud.'"

"We'll take that, young man." "Do you know that you rarely see a quart bottle? I mean by that a bottle that holds a quart," said B. B. Hart, of that holds a quart," said R. R. Hart, of Mincola, Tex., at the Lindell, to a St. Louis Fost-Dispatch man. "A few years ago when Jim Hogg, who is now Governor of the State of Texas, was Prosecuting-Attorney of Wood County, he filed complaint against every liquor dealer in the county who had quart license. He had been investigating the matter, and found that the bottles they were selling for quarts would hold only a pint and a half.

A little figuring showed that there was a saving to the dealer of eleven gallons of whiskey on every barrel he sold by the quart.

"Scores of cases were filed against each dealer, but by pleading guilty to one case against each man and promising to sell full quarts in the future he dismissed the other cases. Full quarts were ordered, but when these came they lacked a gill of houding the necessary amount of liquid.

"Jim Hogg was inexorable, and showed the whiskey dealer that he was not complying with the statute, and that he would insist on the law being carried out to the letter. Another order was sent in for quart hottles, and as there were none in the market they had to be specially made. And to this day these bottles are known in Wood County as the Jim Hogg quarts. They hold a standard quart, and many an old dram-loving granger keeps one, and when he wants his liquor he takes his bottle with him to town." Mincola, Tex., at the Lindell, to a St.
